LaRue.
Seeding is getting along, but next week it will be put in at it, seeding corn grounds. Some fields here will not average 10 bushels per acre. Wheat sowed a week ago is coming up nicely—a little late now to sow wheat, but corn ground will come on fast and may do well.

Kridler is having a ditch located to drain his wet farm, the outlet is through a portion of my land, a good outlet, and a good one will be necessary. I need no much there, nature provided me a good one. He is braced but little territory, in his petition, the trustees intend to take in a great deal more.

The new school house is behind time and likely to remain so.

Dr. Mouser says in the LaRue News that he has not lost a case of typhoid fever in 20 years, wonderful! wonderful! wonderful! He should write a work on typhoid fever and its treatment, soon, he might do, and Brother Crabtree on his experience in the Prohibition party, its rise and fall.

One T. McKelenny is giving his experience in farming in the LaRue News. He says: "God sent hog cholera to kill hogs, that he has lost $1000 worth and there is no cure for it, nor preventive means." This is not the matter. He says he is raising barley to feed chickens and all kinds of stock that barley is the thing for hogs.

J. J. Hopkins was in LaRue Saturday. He will not run for Probate judge until Beale's term expires. He will have been elected for second term in this Democratic county. Well John would be very well suited to the place.

Rev. Crabtree is speaking his Prohibition to small audiences, come out and hear a doleful song. He has a hard time in here free of charge, cheap enough. His chair is Prohibition and farming; what does he know about farming? Nothing.

THE GREAT FAIR.

THE WEATHER DOES NOT EFFECT THE ATTENDANCE

Over Thirteen Thousand People Present Thursday, and the Friday Crowd to Surprisingly Large—The Parade Abandoned—Some Notable Exhibits.

Thursday was one of the greatest Fair days Marion has ever known. The weather during the forenoon was full of promise, and the people turned out in great crowds. There was a constant pouring in of people up to 2 o'clock and then there was a pouring of rain, not a little drizzling shower, but a perfect storm of rain and hail. The grounds were deluged, fine shoes and fine clothes ruined and many a person wetted through and through. There was a rush in all directions for shelter and the big grand stand and halls were crowded to suffocation, and yet all could not be sheltered. Many were completely drenched and the fine exhibits and gayety were turned to discomfort and a show of soiled skirts and wetted hose.

There were doubtless thirteen thousand people on the grounds, for the sales of tickets exceeded ten thousand, a number said to exceed any figure ever reached in the past. The incoming ceased with the storm and the outgoing began immediately after it had sufficiently slackened to permit it.

It was thought the races would be postponed, but the call-bell rang and the runners were called out and given the first half-mile dash in the rain. Then the 2:30 pace was resumed and finished, with Gloster, the Waldo horse, a winner. The 3-year-old stake race was postponed to Friday, and the announcement made that the Fair would continue on Saturday.

Up to noon Friday's crowd surpassed the highest expectations, the number being scarcely less than Thursday. The stock parade, the feature of the day, was abandoned, because of the desire to avoid cutting up the track.

Saturday will be a notable day for sport. The great free-for-all pace, the novelty running race—a 2 mile dash—and the consolation race are booked for Saturday. The exhibits over the grounds are expected to continue, and Saturday, the weather permitting, will be the most enjoyable day of all.

Kling's Display of Implements.
Modern enterprise has not witnessed a greater triumph than the display of agricultural implements made by C. E. Kling & Co.'s hardware and implement house.

With his force of local representatives, reinforced by a special agent from all the great manufacturing firms which he represents, Messrs. Kling & Co. have placed the largest and most varied show this year ever seen here. His output of McCormick harvesters has this year been most gratifying in number and the universal satisfaction which they give to customers is notable. They are showing binders and mowers. From the great factory of P. P. Mast & Co. are shown Buckeye drills, rakes and cultivators. The great Moline Plow Co.'s show is a center of attraction with its shining nickel plated premium Ditchman, and a large display of plows and cultivators.

The Brown Manufacturing Co. is known by its famous wagons, cultivators and harrows, followed by the Brown-Manley & Co.'s Malta plows and cultivators.

The Star Wind Engine is there, winning many friends, and a clear day on almost any road will show that more Star mills draw water for man and beast than any other in the firmament of popular favor.

The Standard Manufacturing Co.'s rakes, tedders and disk harrows are well represented.

The Reeves' stacker is here, and Foss & Co.'s scientific feed mills.

The firm is making a special hit with their Columbus Co.'s cart with ingenious improvements, doing away with both horse and lateral motion.

O'Brien Bros' hay carriers and a large line of small implements closes this noted display of the leading implement house in this section of Ohio.

Fine Display of Furniture.
Frame & Beicher, the well-known furniture dealers and undertakers, are making the finest display, in their line, ever seen in Mechanics hall.

It consists of hall and library furniture with the popular 16th century finish.

Elaborate and very elegant showings are made in antique oak of bed room, parlor and dining room sets. Parlor furniture is shown in all the latest styles of upholstery.

Such a display made from the firm's large establishment, on west Center street, shows commendable enterprise in bringing to Marion the best class of furniture to be found anywhere. Messrs. Frame & Beicher have their own upholstery establishment are engaged to execute any desired design to order.

Malise as a sire of Coach and Road Horses.
The reappearance of the justly celebrated race horse and thoroughbred stallion, Malise, after a retirement of eight years in the stud, is an event of unusual interest to horsemen.

Malise is royally bred, being by that great sire of race horses, Waverly, son of imported Austrian dam, Nellie Gray, by Oliver.

As a race horse Malise was of that stout hearted, invincible type that won with big weights and at long distance, winning six races at Coney Island and was second nine times. As an individual Malise challenges admiration. He is a chestnut stallion, over sixteen hands and weighs 1750 pounds.

From his stud service in this locality we have a class of road, coach and family horses that are in great demand. During the present season a very handsome, stylish and fast gelding by him was exported to Scotland, by a large importer of horses, who pronounced him superior to anything he saw in England for coach purposes. One of the great pair of prize winning matched geldings, shown by Watkins Brothers and sold to Governor Campbell, is by Malise.

He transmits to his get plenty of size, excellent bone, superb style, a kind disposition, good sense and a nice way of going in harness or under saddle.

Ackerman's Exhibit.

The Fair would hardly be complete without the familiar presence and enterprise of Henry Ackerman, dealer in musical instruments and sewing machines.

The first booth as you enter Art Hall on the east side discloses a most pleasing and busy scene.

Ackerman's well known force of gentlemanly salesmen is re-enforced by Mr. Woodcut and Miss Smith, of Cleveland. They have in charge a most beautiful display of White sewing machines and work wrought upon them. Here at least, the "White is King," and all lovers of the beautiful in art needle work will pay grateful homage. The White is an Ohio machine, made in Ohio—the product of Ohio genius, enterprise and skill, and if Ohio men and Ohio products do not get to the front they will come "near it, very near it," as they make and sell 600 machines daily. Ackerman's exhibit of White machines are in artistic makes of Mahogany, White Ash, Oak and Walnut. The White folks have made some very important improvements for their Machine; in movement it is practically noiseless.

A tension release greatly saves thread from see-saw wear and prevents puckering of goods. It also has an admirable stitch regulator and patented axle for bobbin.

Miss Smith's display of work done on the White is very clever. Her embroideries, "Frolic of the Kittens" and "Group of Chickens," and "Pharaoh's Horses," have received the encomiums of praise wherever shown, and etching on bolting cloth, most difficult material to work, has decided merit. New stitches in Kensington raised tinsel and the latest fad, called Roman embroidery, all testify to the utility of the White.

Mr. Ackerman shows in his music department a George Steck & Co. piano, in French walnut, and an Ivers & Pond in mahogany, both first-class instruments, and standard makes of organs and musical merchandise.

John Landon, the Decorator.

A beautiful object lesson illustrating the advancing taste in home decoration, may be seen in John Landon's exhibit at entrance of Art Hall. About five hundred feet of wall and floor space are most exquisitely draped and furnished with all the latest novelties in his line.

They consist of latest patterns of fine Moquets, with borders to match; the most attractive designs in Persian rugs; Vellour and silk curtains in newest colorings; silk scarfs, sofa pillows, head rests in novel shapes and a handsome line of Japanese goods.

Mr. Landon has a most elaborate display of fine art goods for fancy needle work, in special charge of Miss Sherbrooke, of the Columbus Ladies' Exchange. Such a display of art decorations cannot fail to interest and educate all lovers of the beautiful. It won first premium and several special premiums.

Mr. Landon's enterprise is not limited to the sale of a much higher class of goods than were ever brought to Marion before, but he is especially prepared with skilled assistants to go into the homes and make interior decorations of all kinds in the most approved manner.

Marion County Importing Co., and Watkins Bros.

The Marion County Importing company and the stables of Watkins Brothers contribute eleven head of horses to the exhibition. They have inaugurated a most useful and sensible reform in the manner of showing draft stallions this year.

For the first time they show a magnificent pair of Percheron draft stallions in harness at draft. Paul Emile and Fuellard, five-year-old dapple gray Percherons, weighing about 1800 each, perfectly matched in size, style, color and gait, hitched to a large farm wagon were driven at a fast walk over the grounds and attracted universal attention and favorable comment. If stallion men everywhere would adopt such rational plans of exercising their horses we would bear less complaint of lack of fertility in stock horses, and their get would possess greater vitality, better health, disposition and endurance. Montmorency, dark steel gray, and Bruhema, light dapple gray, are both grand three-year-olds of good scale, action, bone and style.

They are followed in order by three-year-old Percheron imported mares, Mary and Diana, a black and a very dark steel gray. Mary comes with fresh laurels from the Ohio state fair, winning in her class and sweepstakes as the best mare of any age or breed. Diana is much the same type being smoothly turned, clean limbed. They are in fact model draft mares and are best described by a term used by reporters for horses of that class in which they are technically called "sweet."

A match team of black, half-blood, Percheron geldings is shown and strikingly shows the influence of the first cross. We have shown in a former article by appeal to the history of the importing industry, that Watkins Brothers and their associates were the first men in this country to fully test the uniform value of the grade Percheron or Norman in our home markets, and that they were the first firm in this country to engage in the importing business permanently.

It is but fitting that we here call attention to a pioneer work in which they are engaged, of no less importance than the one of which they are the recognized founders and as far as quality is concerned leaders today. Instead of passing the made-up breeds of coach horses of the old world on their customers at enormous profits as many importers have done, they recognized the fact that we had better material for establishing a breed of coach and road or light harness horses than anywhere else on the globe. We have in fact a breed already established that has greater adaptability to road work than any other horse in the world.

With a view to gaining public recognition of this great fact, Watkins Brothers have selected representative types of our trotting-bred horse, of suitable size for coach and single drivers, which they have shipped to England, and found ready sale at remunerative prices. They are showing a state-of-the-art pair of matched chestnut geldings of coach size, weighing about 1500 apiece. This great pair won first premium and have been sold to Governor Campbell. They are well matched in size, style, color and gait.

The horse exhibit closes with a bay single driver and family horse, very kind, gentle and quite speedy. Watkins Brothers show worthy representatives from their prize winning of Gallopway cattle. The Gallopway excels all other beef breeds in ability to hustle for a living and keep in high flesh without extra food or shelter.

Buxton & McTear's Splendid Display.

The old world, with its accumulated art treasures gathered in centuries past, is casting her gems at our feet. This is notably true in regard to decorative art in china ware.

A visit to the magnificent display of china, glass and fancy goods at the Fair by Buxton & McTear, made from their large Main street store, will please the most fastidious.

A large exhibit in terraced form in which glittering lines of ware mount one above another, produces a most striking effect. Bedroom sets in Royal Worcester, Vienna, French and American china in elegant profusion.

Dinner sets in Haviland, Vienna, French, English and American china, and English semi-porcelain in endless variety.

They show thirty-three designs of hanging lamps alone. In fancy goods, Barbatine vases bearing the impress of oriental art from Turkey, Royal Worcester decorated by eminent artists there. In glassware they have a goodly variety of real cut glass, also Bohemian wine sets, and Venetian Water sets from Italy, mother of art. Colonna sets, glass baskets and Bisque figures.

The firm is to be congratulated on the interest they have awakened and public appreciation will repay them with well deserved patronage in time.

One Outside Follows Another.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 8.—Frank Brighton, a collector employed by George S. Eddy, committed suicide last night by jumping from Crab Pond bridge. While men were dragging for his body, a man who has not been identified, took off his coat on the Ferry street wharf, jumped into the water and was drowned.

It Means a Good Struggle.
St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Pitcher Tom Ramsey, recently released by Von der Ahe, has been signed by the Syracuse club.
